

BREAK IN HOT WAVE PROMISED FOR THIS EVENING

SAYS POLICE KNOW SLAYER OF ANNOUNCER

Head of Detroit Dept. Claims Solution of Buckley's Death

BULLETIN
Detroit, July 28—(AP)—Police Commissioner Thomas C. Wilcox said today that the slayers of Jerry Buckley, radio announcer of station WMBC, "are known to the police."

SPECTACULAR RAID
Detroit, Mich., July 28—(UP)—Police today sought to connect five men, arrested in a spectacular raid on a home in the exclusive Grosse Pointe district, with the murder last week of Gerald E. Buckley, radio announcer and commentator on civic affairs.

Buckley was killed as he sat in a hotel lobby. He had taken an active part in the recall fight against Mayor Charles Bowles, and had been an untiring opponent of underworld graft and gambling.

While police were working on this angle, officers shot and killed a hold-up man, who wounded one of the patrolmen before he was killed.

The bandit was not identified. He had robbed a grocery store and was cornered a short time later by a police radio fire.

Seeing he could not escape, the bandit opened fire. His first shot hit Evert Wuolila, 33. Police returned the fire and the man dropped, fatally wounded.

Offered No Battle
The five men were arrested after 60 police, armed with tear bombs and machine guns, had laid siege to their hide-out for two hours. They surrendered without a shot being fired.

The five are Joseph Catalano, 37; Dago Bonivante, 30; Elmer Macklin, 24; Joe Locano, 28 and Joseph Amico 30. All have been arrested many times before.

Police believe that the five might be implicated in the gang murder of Buckley was based on the finding of the handle of a German Luger revolver in the Grosse Pointe house. The barrel of the gun has not been found. Some of the 11 bullets which killed Buckley were fired from a Luger.

Besides the handle of the Luger, police found four pistols, a sawed off shotgun, a suitcase filled with ammunition and cartridge filled clips. The guns had been hidden behind upper floor walls. Police and firemen who were called on for aid, virtually wrecked the upper part of the house in searching for the weapons.

Car Demolished In Plunge Into Ditch
An Essex sedan, owned and driven by J. F. Gholson, 305 Summit avenue, was practically demolished Sunday morning about 10:20 on the Lowell Park road, when in passing another machine, it skidded in the loose gravel and turned over in a deep ditch. Mr. Gholson and two sons, LeRoy and James, daughter Mary Ellen and Miss Virginia Gholson were passengers in the car and were returning from Lowell Park.

Just east of the Dixon Country Club Mr. Gholson attempted to pass another car driven by Wilson Dyar of this city. In doing so, the wheels of his car skidded in the gravel and the car slid along the road sideways for some distance, then dove into the deep ditch. One of the boys was catapulted through the top of the car which split open. All were considerably shaken up but none sustained serious injury.

Seven Injured In Motor Bus Accident
Michigan City, Ind., July 28—(UP)—Seven Chicagoans were injured—two of them seriously, today in a bus crash in the heart of Michigan City.

An east bound bus driven by William Austin, Benton Harbor, swerved to miss an automobile and crashed into a telephone pole.

Slayer Of Negro Student Convicted
Atlanta, Ga., July 28—(UP)—T. L. Martin, one of seven white men indicted on charges of slaying Dennis Hubert, Negro divinity student, was found guilty of voluntary manslaughter today with the recommendation he be sentenced to the penitentiary for not less than 12 or more than 15 years.

Mrs. Grace Gerdes Called This Morn
Mrs. Grace Gerdes, widow of the late Harry Gerdes, passed away at 11:30 o'clock this morning at her home, 309 Grant Ave., after a lingering illness. Funeral arrangements and obituary will be published later.

Some Oddities In Wire News Today From Various Parts

HEAT EXPLODES PAVEMENT.
Paris, Ill., July 28—(AP)—Noel Wood, Aetna Life Insurance adjuster, and Miss Catherine Mitten, both of Milwaukee, were injured when heat exploded the pavement under their automobile yesterday, throwing the car into a ditch.

RAIN ANSWERED APPEAL.
Polacca, Ariz., July 28—(UP)—The "green corn" dance of the Hopi Indians was halted Sunday when desert thunderstorms put out the ceremonial fires.

The dance was an appeal to their rain god, Omespree, and had been going on for hours when the water fell, halted the weird ceremonies and gave promise of an abundant maize crop.

SAVED WOMAN'S LIFE.
Choteau Slough, Ill., July 28—(UP)—Alertness of Russell Alvey, 23, probably saved the life of Charlotte Hillebrand, 25, after she had been bitten by a rattlesnake near here, physicians said today.

While walking through high weeds the young woman felt a sharp pain in her foot. Inspection of a rubber bathing shoe revealed a tiny puncture.

Alvey found the wound and after slitting it with a knife, sucked the venom from it.

NEW ENDURANCE TEST.
Chicago, July 28—(AP)—A new form of endurance contest which may get its three participants somewhere eventually but hasn't yet, has been going on now since June 1.

Originally there were 52 boys of the Chicago Boys Club Corporation starting out on an "endurance contest" for jobs. Three boys are still enduring. Henry Schultz has called on 78 business houses without luck. Victor Balinskas has asked for work at 41 places; and John Himber 32. All are 17 years old.

GOT TICKET ANYWAY.
Chicago, July 28—(AP)—The traffic cop halted the big automobile, pulled out his book, poised his pencil, and asked, icily: "What's your name?"

"John H. Alcock," said the automobile driver.

"Oh," said policeman, "the Police Commissioner. Well, well, I'm the Prince of Wales, myself, and the President wants to see you about driving through that stop light. What's your real name?"

"John H. Alcock," said the automobile driver.

And it was, indeed. Not the Commissioner, but his nephew. And the officer gave him the ticket, anyway.

BISHOP OWNS BAR.
London, July 28—(UP)—Owning a bar is just as natural an investment for a clergyman as for any other individual, according to the view of Dr. A. G. Rawstorne, Bishop of Wharfedale, Lancashire, who is attending the Lambeth church conference here.

"I actually own a fully licensed public house near Blackburn," said Bishop Rawstorne in discussing problems then before the licensing commission.

"A public house, run as it should be run, can be as clean a business as any other," the bishop told a London newspaper.

"It was not only a moral impulse that led me to purchasing these premises, of which I have a freehold. I did like any one else making an investment."

"I pay frequent visits to assure myself it is conducted to my wishes."

Tammany Leader Is 101: Eluded Friends
New York, July 28—(UP)—John R. Voorhis, New York's most celebrated centenarian, passed his 101st anniversary Sunday at the home of his youngest daughter, Mrs. William H. Newell in White Plains.

Voorhis, president of the New York City Board of Elections and Grand Sachem of Tammany Hall, was born in 1831 at Pompton Plains, N. J.

"MA" FERGUSON, ROSS STERLING, WIN TEXAS POLL

Will Enter Run-Off Primary In August For Nomination

BY EARL R. STEELE
(United Press Staff Correspondent)
Dallas, July 28—(UP)—Election officials today awaited only the final tabulation of ballots to declare former Gov. Miriam A. "Ma" Ferguson and Ross Sterling, Houston capitalist, winners over a field of nine other candidates for the Democratic nomination for Governor in Texas' first 1930 primary election.

Returns from 243 counties, 59 complete out of 253 gave Mrs. Ferguson 197,375 votes; Sterling, 141,283.

"Ma" Ferguson, who entered the race after her husband, former Governor James E. "Pa" Ferguson, was barred by the State Supreme Court because he had been impeached for misconduct of office, will meet Sterling in the run-off primary August 26 for the Democratic nomination, considered equivalent to election in Texas.

Morris Sheppard, author of the Eighteenth Amendment, already had clinched his nomination for re-election to the United States Senate. He polled 369,422 votes, compared to 125,632 for his wet opponent, Robert L. Henry, and 29,368 for C. A. Mitchell.

H. E. Exum, Amarillo, filed a lead for the Republican gubernatorial nomination. His vote was 970 to 412 for George C. Butte, Austin, after returns from 25 counties were tabulated.

Moody To Oppose "Ma"
Gov. Dan Moody who, after the entry of Ross Sterling, his Highway Commission Chairman, refused to comment on the race, announced he would take the stump against "Fergusons."

"I am for anyone who runs against Fergusons," he said. "My prediction is that the state will not again be ashamed at home and ridiculed abroad by the shameful and ridiculous spectacle of proxy government."

The Ferguson first entered politics 16 years ago and the name of either "Ma" or "Pa" has appeared on the ballots every two years since, with the exception of 1928. "Pa," a champion of farm relief, was a Bell county farmer when first elected to office. After he was impeached, "Ma" took up the family banner and carried it into Texas' White House where she canned peaches and preserved fruit just as she did in her ranch.

Their latest victory aligns both "Ma" and "Pa" against one of the most colorful figures in Texas business. Thirty five years ago, Ross Sterling, at the age of 20, operated a freight boat on the Gulf of Mexico plying from Anahuac to Galveston. He acquired a chain of three grocery stores, became head of a country bank and then part-holder in two producing oil wells. His fortune now is estimated at $300,000.

The reports are the basis for a denial by Police Captain Charles Goff, that he identified Mooney and Billings for MacDonald, as the latter charges in his reputation affidavit.

Meanwhile, the disappearance of the two reports on the case from police files here was reported.

RECOUNTING WITNESS TO TELL CALIFORNIA SUPREME COURT HE LIED AGAINST MOONEY-BILLINGS

Famous Case Will Be Reopened Tomorrow In San Francisco

San Francisco, Calif., July 28—(UP)—Preparations were made today for a session of the California Supreme Court in which the case of Warren K. Billings, convicted of complicity in the San Francisco Preparedness Day bombing, will be "re-tried."

Indications are the hearing, to start tomorrow, will be devoted largely to the testimony of John MacDonald, recanting witness, who came from Baltimore to tell the seven Supreme Court Justices that he had at the trial of Billings and Thomas J. Mooney in 1916.

Questioning of MacDonald will be by the Justices, but it is likely that some cross examining by Charles M. Fickert, the prosecutor who convicted Mooney and Billings, will be permitted.

Both Mooney and Billings desire to appear personally at the hearing but it is unlikely that either will be permitted to do so. A petition by Mooney, asking that he be summoned as a material witness, is before the court and probably will be denied before the opening of Tuesday's hearing.

Uninterested In Mooney
The court has indicated it intends to limit the hearing to Billings' case as the Justices are without authority to act in behalf of or against Mooney. Action on a Mooney pardon petition must come direct from the Governor and for that reason the court is not interested in the Mooney phase of the bombing case, even though both men were convicted on the same evidence.

The hearing is the second one the court has held on the Billings case, having rejected his petition early this month. The return of MacDonald, who wants to deny this testimony that he saw Billings plant the dynamite bomb that killed 10 persons, resulted in a decision for the rehearing.

As though anticipating that the Governor will use the court's recommendation on Billings as a guide in his case, Mooney today sent a new petition for a pardon to the Governor's office in Sacramento.

Frank P. Walsh, New York attorney, drew up the petition. It said that Mooney was convicted on the testimony of MacDonald and Frank Oxman, Oregon cattle man. MacDonald has confessed said, while Oxman's testimony was discredited years ago, even by those opposed to a pardon for Billings and Mooney.

Records Missing
The disappearance of the two reports on the case from police files here was reported.

The reports are the basis for a denial by Police Captain Charles Goff, that he identified Mooney and Billings for MacDonald, as the latter charges in his reputation affidavit.

BABIES TANGLE GETS TO CHURCH FOR SETTLEMENT

But Court Action This Week Seems Likely, Attorney Says

Chicago, July 28—(AP)—The Watkins-Bamberger baby tangle which has been joined from the laps of obstetrics, Department of Health, finger print experts, bone, blood and baby specialists, a maternal mass meeting and even the law, lay cradled today in the bassinet of the church. Still it did not rest.

The infant in the possession of the Charles Bambergers was baptized George Edward Bamberger at the Church of Our Lady of Solace yesterday.

The William Watkins, who are Presbyterians and who believe the baby baptized a Bamberger is really their own offspring, today sought the advice of a clergyman of their own faith with a view to having the child in their possession baptized without application of a name.

The Watkins' attorney, Barratt O'Hara, was getting ready to ask a writ of habeas corpus to compel the Bambergers to produce their baby in court and show cause why they should not surrender it. In such an action, it was explained, the matter would be placed before the court which would make final decision as to the parentage.

Bamberger, on the other hand, has announced everything was settled, that he was satisfied he now has his own infant and that no legal action of any kind is contemplated.

Mr. and Mrs. Watkins expressed no concern over the fact that the baby they believe to be their own was christened a Bamberger.

"When we get the baby trade arranged, we'll have him rebaptized into our faith," they said.

Representatives of leading hospitals and several prominent baby specialists were asked yesterday if in their opinion a mother would recognize her new born babe. The replies, with one exception, were in the affirmative: that a mother could recognize her baby unmistakably after having seen it once or twice.

This proposition was put to Dr. H. H. Gibson, obstetrician: "Granted that a mother can recognize a child on second encounter as the one given her at first. But suppose she were given the wrong baby in the beginning, would her mother's instinct detect the error?"

"Hm, hardly," he replied.

And there is one of the knots in the tangled Bamberger-Watkins case.

Polo Man, Stricken Abroad, Died Sunday
(Telegraph Special Service)
Po, July 28—P. Scott McMillan passed away at the Deaconess hospital in Freeport Sunday morning at 5 o'clock, where he had been receiving treatment for the past month.

Mr. McMillan was stricken while attending the Polo Play at Oberammergau several weeks ago and was hastened home. He was born on a farm near Polo, December 27, 1852 and with the exception of about 15 years spent in the south had spent his entire lifetime in this vicinity.

He is survived by one sister, Mrs. Amanda Thomas, of Hibbing, Minn. Funeral services will be conducted from the Presbyterian church Tuesday afternoon at 2 o'clock. Rev. John L. Tait officiating and with interment in Fairmount cemetery.

Fire, Started By Burglars, Costly
Evansville, Ill., July 28—(UP)—Fire, started by burglars who were ransacking the house, caused $20,000 damage to the residence of Bernard C. Garrison, treasurer of a Chicago lighting equipment firm.

Firemen, summoned by a passer-by, quenched the fire, and found burnt matches scattered on the floor and stairs of the house. Oriental rugs, oil paintings, and art objects were piled at a rear door.

Many Art Objects Stolen In London
London, July 28—(AP)—British police are puzzled by the unusually large numbers of art objects stolen this year.

The latest in the series was the abstraction Saturday night of a valuable Reynolds portrait from the London home of the Earl of Minto. The Earl and Countess were dining out, leaving only the servants and children behind.

When they returned a portrait of the first Countess of Minto was missing of Minto was missing, also a string of 300 pearls and other jewels valued at $100,000. The picture, valued at a like amount, had been unframed and rolled up in the library.

Terse Items of News Gathered in Dixon During Day

CARS COLLIDED
Cars driven by Mrs. W. D. Har, and Mrs. Goldie Chesmore, both of Dixon, were slightly damaged this morning about 10 o'clock on First street between Peoria and Hennepin avenues. None of the occupants were injured.

SUFFERS BROKEN ARM
Mrs. John P. McIntyre suffered a painful injury at her home, 704 Nachusa avenue. She was engaged in hanging up washed clothes when in some manner she slipped and fell, sustaining a fracture of the left forearm just above the wrist. The accident occurred about 8 o'clock this morning.

GRASS FIRE TODAY
The fire department was summoned to the Standard Oil Company's bulk station on East River street this morning at 11:30 where a fire had started in dry grass and weeds, threatening the tanks. The community truck was pressed into service and the fire was extinguished without damage.

LICENSED TO WED
The following marriage licenses have been granted by County Clerk Fred G. Dimick: August G. Hinman, of Marengo, Iowa, and Mrs. Ida Pearl Myers of Muscatine, Iowa; Johnnie V. Cordes and Miss Gladys V. Cox, both of Oregon; Oswin W. Halbmaier and Miss Ruth H. Heiden, both of Lee Center township.

JUDGE HAD PLANE TRIP
Cards received from Judge and Mrs. Harry Edwards this morning told of their enjoying an airplane trip from the Atlantic to the Pacific oceans. While sojourning in the Canal Zone last week, Judge and Mrs. Edwards enjoyed the aerial trip across Panama, before leaving for South America.

CAMPED ON HIGHWAY
A New York tourist who had driven his car off the paving just east of the Crawford Maples corner, and erected a tent to spend the night, was aroused from his slumbers early Sunday morning by State Officers Roberts and Tyne. The tourist obeyed the officers' orders to break camp and find another location more suitable and much safer than the right of way of the Lincoln Highway on which to pitch his tent.

50 CHICKENS STOLEN
John Helrich, residing east of Dixon on route 2, reported to Sheriff Ward Miller this morning the loss of 50 spring chickens. Poultry thieves entered his premises about 3 o'clock Sunday morning and carried the broilers away. Mr. Helrich was aroused at the early hour yesterday morning past his house, but did not realize that they were chicken thieves until about noon Sunday.

TO TALK OF RUSSIA
Dr. Joseph Beech, who within the past few weeks has traveled through Siberia and Russia on his return to the United States from China, will address the Dixon Kiwanis Club at its regular weekly meeting Tuesday noon at 12:10 in the parlors of the Christian church. His subject will be, "Some Impressions of Russia."

Dr. Beech is at the head of an American college in China and is home on his furlough, visiting with Dixon relatives for several days.

HAD LOADED PISTOLS
An Ashton youth driving an automobile into the Dixon airport after midnight Saturday, attracted the attention of State Highway Officers Roberts and Tyne who upon investigation, found that he was carrying two loaded revolvers. One was a new automatic pistol and the other a 38 caliber revolver. The young man explained that the guns were the property of his father. The weapons were brought to Dixon to be turned over to the parent after the officers had made an investigation.

COOL WAVE IS ENROUTE FROM ALASKAN AREA

Some Localities To Get Much Needed Rain, Forecast Says

BULLETIN
Johannesburg, South Africa, July 28—(UP)—Several inches of snow fell here today, bringing a sudden change in one of the warmest winters on record.

Chicago, July 28—(AP)—Relief from the torrid, humid week-end came today in the upper Mississippi valley states as a cool wave from Alaska made its way into the north-central states. The break in the heat wave, in which maximum readings of 110 degrees were reported yesterday in several localities, was predicted to reach the eastern and southern limits of this section tonight or Tuesday.

Temperatures were from 10 to 15 degrees lower today over Wisconsin, Minnesota, the Dakotas, Nebraska, Iowa and Ohio than yesterday. Possible thunderstorms are on schedule for Illinois, Indiana, Missouri and Kansas today.

Corn Needs Rain
Though slightly cooler weather ended Iowa's highest temperatures of the year, there was little sign of rain which farmers say is needed to keep the corn from dying. Inwood and Albia had the temperatures of 119 yesterday. Boone and Burlington reported 109 and Des Moines 106.

In other localities, three of them in Illinois, the mercury scored 110 yesterday. They were: Mexico, Mo., Earlinton, Ky., Conway, Ark., and Harrisburg, Carbondale and Mt. Carmel, Ill. Temperatures in southern Illinois will not be materially tempered today.

After a thunderstorm in Chicago early this morning the mercury began climbing and had reached 91 at noon. It was expected to go higher until forced down sharply when the cool wave hits the city.

Two Die In Chicago
Two deaths in Chicago attributed in part to heat were reported today. Fritz Kling, 50, was found dead in bed and Miss Pauline Doherty, 52, collapsed in her home and died on the way to the hospital. Bruce Stewart, 30, St. Louis, State Motorcycle Policeman, was overcome by heat while on duty near Galena, Ill., yesterday.

The cool wave is not generally being accompanied by rain and sunshine is on the menu for Michigan, Wisconsin, Iowa, Minnesota, the Dakotas and Nebraska. But local showers and thunderstorms are likely within the next 12 to 36 hours in the extreme southern portion of the north central states.

The break in the heat wave has now extended as far southward as extreme northern Kansas and eastward across the extreme upper Mississippi valley.

Death Duties Force Sale Of An Estate
London, July 28—(AP)—Frederick George Trevelyan, the Canadian rancher who became the Earl of Egmout last year, will sell his ancestral estate and heirlooms because of the high death duties.

The sale will include Avon Castle, in Hants, the ancestral estate of the Earls of Egmout, and also the silver, pictures and the like that go with it. The miscellaneous articles will go first.

"I want to see what I can raise on these and other properties before I put a price on the castle," the former Earlbert said.

He said the death duties for his kinsmen, the ninth Earl, and those who eventually will be placed against his own estate made the action necessary.

German Fliers To Fly In Easy Stages
Kirkwall, Orkney Islands, July 28—(AP)—The German fliers Wolfram Hirth and Oscar Weller, who arrived yesterday on their way from Germany to Chicago by easy stages, spent a good part of the day seeking a suitable place to take off for the remainder of their flight over the Atlantic.

Hirth, who was married recently, was asked if his wife would join him in America.

"Yes," he replied, "she will if I get there."

He said that he hoped to remain on the North American continent about a year.

Weller said that upon arrival at Labrador the flight would be continued by easy stages along the St. Lawrence. The first landing in the United States, he said, probably would be Detroit.

Endurance Fliers

Seek More Money
St. Louis, July 28—(P)—Dale Jackson and Forest O'Brien today began the second week of an endurance flight in which they hope to break the record of 554 hours recently established by the Hunter brothers in Chicago. At 7:11 A. M. today the fliers completed the first week of the flight.

Jackson and O'Brien, in a note dropped from the plane, said more money to finance the flight was needed. Already about $20,000 had been subscribed, but flight officials claim that is at least $5,000 short of the amount necessary.

Married in Dixon
Saturday Afternoon

August G. Hinman of Marengo, Ia., and Mrs. Ida Pearl Myers of Muscatine, Ia., were married in Dixon at 2:30 o'clock on Saturday afternoon at the parsonage to the Baptist church, with the Reverend W. W. Marshall, the pastor, officiating at the service. The bride was prettily attired in tan silk. Mrs. A. M. Coll of Amboy, accompanied the couple to Dixon, and witnessed the marriage. They are extended the best wishes of many friends.

Have You Heard?

Vases with handles are extremely smart right now.

It is not merely any vase with a handle for any flower, however. This season sees the vogue for particular kinds of vases for particular flowers.

A sturdy modern clay basket in rust color is just made to hold zinnias. An exquisite black glass urn is perfect for white freesias, white roses or white narcissus.

Other vases with handles that suggest certain flowers include: A wicker covered container, excellent for daisies, bluebells or other wild flowers, a modern low, delicate green and lavender pottery vase, with dainty little tassels, handles, excellent for sweet peas; a stately looking modern German pottery urn, in white, with green bands, good for tulips.

Dixon Club of Southern California Held Annual Picnic, July 19

PANSIES

HERE they grew.
From blue to deeper blue, in midst of each
A golden dangle like a glimmering star,
Each broader, bigger than a silver crown;
While here the weaver sat, his labor
done,
Watching his azure pets and rearing them,
Until they seemed to know his step and touch,
And stir beneath his smile like living things;
The very sunshine loved them, and would lie
Here happy, coming early, lingering late,
Because they were so fair.

Tells Of Marriage Of Dixon Young Lady

The Woodstock News had the following concerning the wedding of Miss Betty Grobe, daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. Henry Grobe of this city,
to Ernest Bohn of Woodstock:

Ernest Bohn, one of Woodstock's popular young business men, a member of the Bohn hardware firm, and Miss Betty Grobe, daughter of Mr.
and Mrs. Henry Grobe, of Dixon, Ill., announce their marriage on Saturday, July 12, at Valparaiso, Ind.

Following a short wedding trip, Mr. and Mrs. Bohn returned to Woodstock and for the present are making their home at the Bohn residence at Waite Place.

Although the bride is a stranger here, she will find a warm welcome in the midst of a host of friends and business associates of the groom, who is held in high esteem by all.
The Woodstock News joins with their many friends in extending best wishes for a long and happy wedded life.

Three Sisters Had Pleasant Reunion

A recent issue of an Omaha, Neb. paper contained the following concerning a reunion of three sisters—one of them Mrs. Teresa Monahan of Dixon:

A strange family reunion, sadly incomplete but joyous, has brought together in Omaha three sisters, one of whom had not been seen by the other two in more than 50 years.

Mrs. M. A. Lenhart, 3010 North Sixteenth street, hostess at the reunion, made the meeting possible.
Mrs. Teresa Monahan, Dixon, Ill., is the long lost sister and Mrs. Catharine Sullivan, Palisade, Neb., completes the trio.

RECOGNIZE EACH OTHER

Mrs. Monahan arrived in Omaha Sunday night and was recognized immediately by the sisters from whom she had been parted since childhood. She also quickly recognized her kin.

The sisters were members of a family of 10 children. Their mother died on an Illinois farm when all the children were young and the family scattered.

For a time they corresponded.
Then the exchange of letters ceased, and at last all trace of each other was lost. Two members of the family, a brother and sister, are dead.
What has happened to the other five is not known by the three sisters.

SEEK FIVE OTHERS

At a luncheon Tuesday at the home of Mrs. Lenhart's daughter, Mrs. Frank Guinane, 4512 Grand avenue, the sisters decided upon an intensive campaign to locate their missing three brothers and two sisters.

Mrs. Lenhart brought the three together by writing the postmaster at Dixon, Illinois and inquiring about Miss Teresa Fitzpatrick, unaware the sister had been married. The postmaster had known Mrs. Monahan before she was married.

W.C.T.U. Held Meet- ing at Stark Home

The regular monthly meeting of the W. C. T. U. was held Friday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock, with Mrs.
Alice Starks; the president Miss Kate Plant, presiding. The meeting opened by all singing "Carry On" followed by another number "Oh Master Let Me Walk with Thee." with Mrs. Dawson as pianist.
Prayer by Mrs. Dawson.
Secretary's report by Mrs. Fred Hobbs.

Treasurer's report by Miss Callie B.
Morgan.

Mrs. Hobbs read communications from Miss Ephra Marshall and W.
M. Boyd.

Devotionals were read by Miss Plant; reading the 4th chapter of James.

Mrs. Alice Missman following with prayer.

Miss Plant read an article from St.
John Ervine, worthy of publication which follows "St. John Ervine, the Englishman whose theatrical criticism in this country has attracted national attention, writes to the London Observer, writes to the Legation of America must be either lies or gross exaggerations." R. A. Walling, another Englishman, says:
"There is in America no public drinking and no public selling of liquor.
In ten thousand miles of the United States, visiting many of the great cities, I saw only one man a little the worse from drink."

Another number, "Consecration," was sung.

"The Formal Tea," a playlet given by fourteen of the members was then given which proved to be very interesting and instructive, giving an idea of the temperance and drug situation in other countries and we found so much good work being accomplished along those lines. Mrs. Munday is to be congratulated on the success of the playlet at it was through her effort it was given at this meeting.

Mrs. D. P. Leake read a poem from the Union Signal, "Herbert Hoover." Program closed with the mizpah benediction.

Mrs. Starks, the hostess, served tempting refreshments and a social hour was much enjoyed. We were glad to have with us two members who had not been present for a long time.

Miss Ederle, Deaf, Says Channel Swim Wasn't Worth While

BY LORENA HICKOK

Rye, N. Y., July 28—(AP)—She teaches swimming in a broadwalk pool, a bronzed young woman with a determined grin.

Unless you raise your voice she cannot hear, you and looks at you with an expression that has in it embarrassment, bewilderment, fear.

Across the back of her bathing suit is lettered:

"Ederle."

Four years ago this August Gertrude Ederle swam the English Channel and came home to receive a Broadway welcome, congratulatory messages from President Coolidge and Governor Smith, and vaudeville ciphers that were said at the time to amount to nearly $1,000,000.

Today she pushed her hair back behind her ears—a gesture that has become characteristic since she began to lose her hearing two years ago as a result of those 14 hours in the English Channel—and said, a little wistfully.

"It wasn't worth while."

"I'm not sorry I did it. Only—if I'd known how it was going to be, that I'd lose my hearing—I don't think I'd have done it. It—it wasn't worth it."

A year ago last fall, at the end of two years in vaudeville, Gertrude's hearing began to fail. Last winter she could not hear at all. It is better now, but already her voice has begun to take on the flat quality that the voices of the deaf have.

"The doctors say it was the swim that did it," she said, "plus those two terribly strenuous years when I was in the water too much and never had any chance to rest."

When Gertrude came back from Europe there were many stories about the large sums of money she was to receive for this and that and of the rise of the Ederle family to affluence and luxury.

Those things didn't materialize.
Henry Ederle, her father, still runs his provision store. The Ederles still live in the Bronx. And Gertrude teaches swimming in a broadwalk pool at Rye. She'd like a job at some New York club next winter.

"I did earn about $150,000 in vaudeville," she said, "but I got less than $50,000 of it myself. I'm not kicking. It was just my hard luck.
No one kipped me, but those two years on the road cost an awful lot."

"All I got out of my vaudeville earnings and didn't have to spend on my ears I've invested. But it isn't enough. And anyway, I'm only 24. You can't just quit when you're 24."

Rich Widow Married To Her Chauffeur

Syracuse, N. Y., July 28—(UP)—
The blonde, young widow of a watertown millionaire paper mill propie-tor who died last year, was married Saturday to her chauffeur.

The woman is Pauline Sears Em-pall, widow of Frank A. Empall.
She married Howard Marshall Hall at Clayton, N. Y. and the couple left on a trip to Canada.

Mrs. Hall was left $500,000 outright by her late husband out of his $2,000,000 estate. She was a niece of Empall's first wife.

Trousered Evening Gown Feature of the Paris Fashion Show

BY RALPH HEINZEN
(United Press Staff Correspondent)

Paris, July 28—(UP)—A daring innovation—the trousered evening dress—was provided by one designer today as the feature of the winter openings that serve as a crystal in which it is possible to view the styles of tomorrow.

Chantal was the couturier who sponsored the sensational garment drawings its inspiration from the current vogue in beach costumes.
He withheld the pajama-gown until the last moment and its appearance startled the fashion reporters and buyers thronging the salon.

The trousers were cut extremely full and were squared at the bottom, they were attached to the waist by a false belt in striking colors.

The trousers of one dress were of blue, of others almond and green, which contrasted with the low cut metal cloth waists.

However, the opening, made more seasonal than is customary by a cold, rainy day in place of the stifling heat usually obtained at the showings of winter attire, produced few novelties and only served to emphasize the trend toward stateliness.

Long skirts, for example will continue the vogue. From watching the mannequins in their swift passade it is possible to draw up the

For sport—to the calf.
For street—covering the calf.
For formal afternoon—to the ankle top.

For evening—to the slipper-top or floor.

The waistline varies from normal to high, with lines distinctly feminine throughout.

Materials for daytime wear included mixed woolsens, woolen silks, lightweight tweeds, and jersey tweeds in intricate geometrical designs. Heavy silks seemed to predominate for tea-gowns and other attire for the late afternoon. Evening wear included silk, nets, satins and velvets.

Perhaps in the foreground for fall colors were brown, black and white and deep reds. The combination of red and brown, such as in a short jacket with a brown dress, proved especially effective.

Chanel, noted for colors, offered exceptional variations in light tweeds, combining brown with black and white and a new bluish lavender shade with soft green. Nicole Croit sponsored pastels and made a specialty of youthful capes.

S. S. ORCHESTRA WAS FEATURE OF CELEBRATION

A delightful feature of the celebration of the silver wedding anniversary of Rev. and Mrs. B. H. Claver at the Christian church Friday evening, inadvertently omitted in the account of the affair published in Saturday's Telegraph, was the playing of the Sunday School orchestra. The musicians performed excellently and their selections were greatly enjoyed by those present.

SHOWMANSHIP IN EDUCATION.

Teaching by means of the radio has evidently run into some snags or has not come up to the expectations of the educators who have resorted to this method of disseminating knowledge. This surmise is suggested by the address of John Elwood, vice president of the National Broadcasting Company, before the Institute of Education by radio at Ohio State University.

Mr. Elwood doesn't censure or criticize the methods used by these educators but he gives advice in terms of pointed suggestions that should be heeded in a most friendly way. He says that educators must be showmen as well as teachers in the air; and that is the last thing that any educator has any desire to be.

But it must be, says Mr. Elwood. The public demands entertainment of the radio and any departure from that meets with resistance from the listening audience. "Education by radio must therefore carry the sugar-coating of entertainment," for "when education joins hands with radio it enters the show business." And Mr. Elwood admits that this will be no easy adjustment for education to make. Note this interesting statement: "Now, broadcasting is a highly specialized type of showmanship. Difficulties of effective presentation are vastly greater than those of the stage or the moving picture. Its technique must be polished to a much finer degree. Education is, then, in a position of attempting to jump, psychologically, from little or no showmanship at all to the most highly technical form of showmanship which we know today. It is mighty leap."

No educator need shrink from the term showmanship. It simply means presentation, and the country's whole educational system is tending toward the more attractive and appealing form of presentation; but it is needed in a concentrated form over the radio.

ONE-SIDED GREATNESS.

Ignace's Paderewski, who has won distinction as one of the world's greatest pianists and for a brief but brilliant period held the reins of the Polish government in his hands, has recently granted his first interview in several years. In it he makes some serious observations of the times in which we live. They are observations, not criticisms; but they are thought-provoking and one cannot avoid the feeling that this great artist and national leader is not wholly pleased with the conditions on which he makes comment.

"For this age is not propitious for art," said M. Paderewski. "It is an age of economics. It is an age of production, and as such it has great value, for it has brought greater comfort to the masses. If it is well directed it may later come to be regarded as one of the most valuable epochs of this ever-changing system of human life."

He then observes that genius "is impossible under the present system of living." The conditions of quiet and concentration are not favorable to its development; "even in a hermitage one cannot entirely escape the excitement of movement which is pulsating through the whole world in this era of quick travel, radio diffusion and political challenge and change."

HARD TO GET EXCITED.

In all of this business about the "secret papers" connected with the London treaty, it is hard to see any very sound reason for the extreme alarm which seems to pervade the breasts of so many senators just now.

President Hoover's offer to let all of the senators inspect these papers in confidence ought, surely, to remove all fear that our State Department has secretly committed us to any agreement not plainly stated in the treaty itself. There is no good reason for desiring to make the papers public.

One surely may be pardoned for suspecting that this whole fuss about the papers is merely another dodge resorted to by die-hards who are determined to delay passage of the treaty in the hope of finally killing it altogether.

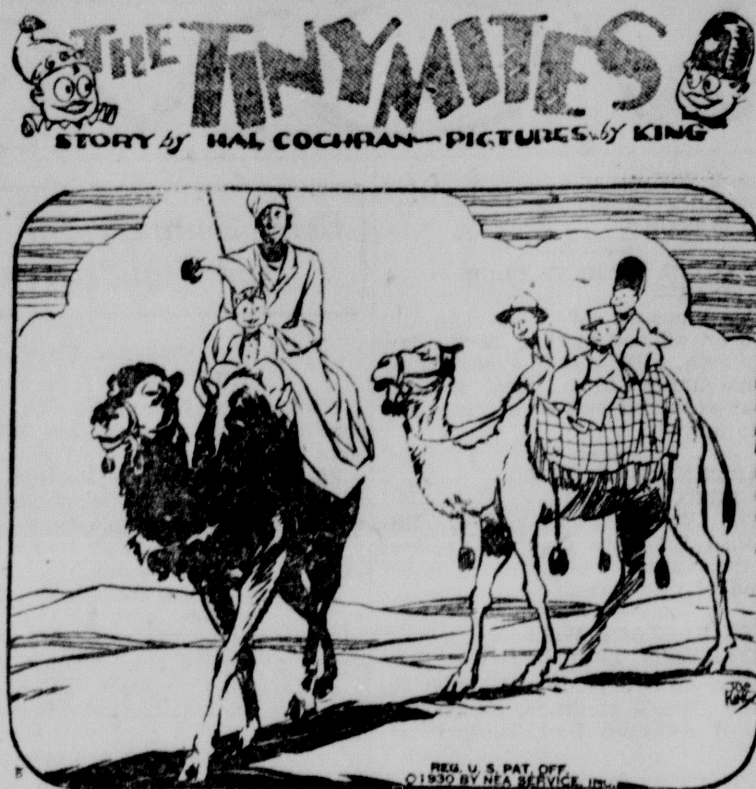

An English pedestrian was recently struck by two automobiles within 10 minutes. He should have stayed down for the count the first time.

When Admiral Byrd arrived in St. Louis the other day to find the thermometer sticking at 103, he must have wondered if he did the right thing in cutting loose from all that Antarctic ice.

John McDonald, who says he perjured Tom Mooney into prison 12 years ago, now wants to "undo the wrong" he has done. Which will be all right, if he can dig up those lost 12 years and give them to Mooney.

One of the peculiarities of our business situation is that business gets slack just when money gets tight.

They say a trip to the moon is possible now. But apparently a great number of vacationers this year have taken a little moonshine along with them.

The Tynmites had had their fill of Baghdad. It was quite a thrill to travel round the city "cause the scenes were queer. The narrow streets that wound about in all parts of the town were found. And far, far down the Tigris they could gaze, when it was clear.

They'd had a boat ride all along the river front mid current strong, but everyone enjoyed it. They decided to repeat this wondrous trip, so off they went and 'bout a half an hour was spent in drifting round and singing songs that sounded very sweet.

The folks on the shore gave them a hand because they thought the music grand. One fellow shouted, "Sing again." And so they sang one line. "We happy Tynmites are we who travel round, the sights to see. We're glad we came to Baghdad 'cause we think your city's fine."

Once more the clapping filled the air. "I guess our singing's rather rare," said little Clowny Tynmite. The others all agreed. The Travel Man said, "Yes, you're grand, but come we must go back to land." The Tynmites obeyed him and returned to shore with speed.

"Where are we going now?" asked one. "What can we do to have more fun? We've seen enough of Baghdad. Let's be on our merry way." "All right," replied the Travel Man. "Another town we'll shortly scan. It's far across the desert and we'll start this very day."

"How will we travel?" Clowny cried. "We'll have to have some way to ride." The Travel Man just grinned and said, "By caravan we'll go." A camel train soon was brought out and amid a very merry shout, the Tynmites climbed aboard. My, but the camels traveled slow.

THE WORLD WAR

On July 28, 1914, Austria-Hungary declared war on Serbia five days after delivering an ultimatum containing demands with which the Serbian government would only partially comply.

Austria-Hungary had accused Serbia of complicity in the assassination of the Austrian heir-apparent, Archduke Francis Ferdinand and his wife, at Sarajevo on June 28, 1914, and alleged that the anti-Austrian machinations of Serbian patriots menaced the integrity of Hapsburg empire.

Serbia was anxious to avert the hostilities that threatened. Diplomats of other European powers sought to iron out the difficulty, but Austria-Hungary refused to submit the matter to peaceful arbitration. The Russian government, sympathetic to Serbia, ordered the mobilization of its army. This caused Germany to declare what it considered to be a defensive war against Russia. Two days later Germany declared war against Russia's ally, France.

When Germany violated Belgium's neutrality, England considered this sufficient cause to declare war against the invaders. The United States entered the conflict on April 6, 1917, by declaring war on Germany.

Tipple And Shaft Indiana Mine Burn

Clinton, Ind., July 26—(UP)—The shaft and tipple of the Bono Coal mine at Dana lay in smoldering ruins today after five unmasked men last night forced Frank Crabb, night watchman and engineer, to lie on the floor of his office while they poured gasoline and benzine over the mine workings and set it afire.

Telephone wires were cut, and no word of the blaze was received until Crabb had walked into Dana and reported the incident.

Three carloads of coal on the tracks at the mine were burned. Hugh Reid, superintendent at the mine, said the damage would total between $35,000 and $50,000.

One year ago rioting broke out between workers at the same mine during disputes over wages.

FEAR

BY ABRAHAM MYERSON, M. D., Boston, Massachusetts.

(This series of articles is prepared under the direction of the Gorgas Memorial Institute, which is organized to perpetuate the life work of the late Major-General Gorgas in preventing unnecessary illness. The headquarters of the Institute are at 1331 G Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.)

A very marked change has taken place in opinion about the value of fear in education and conduct. There was a time when it was given a very honorable place as a constructive factor; then there came a definite revulsion against this opinion and fear became greatly discredited, especially in the education of the child. I have no hesitation in saying that there is a useful, constructive side to fear, without which, human discipline and subjection should be impossible, and there is a pathological fear which works definitely to injure both the physical and mental health of the individual as well as contributing tremendously to unhappiness. On the constructive side, the fear of pain, and the fear of public opinion, fear of punishment in its widest significance, is of immense importance in bringing about foresight and watchful planning; it is a back of thrift, life insurance, agriculture, medicine, a large part of religion, and the orderly conduct of humanity, disciplines unruly passions and over-egoistic reactions.

To be afraid under certain circumstances is entirely normal. To inflict fear, although it is sometimes cruel, is often a way of avoiding worse disasters.

Pathological fear arises as a factor in mental ill health in the form of useless worry, attacks of devastating anxiety and very commonly in the condition known as hypochondriasis, in which individuals fall into a state of fear concerning their health, which is both pathetic and ludicrous. The hypochondriac, watching himself over-closely finds in every twinge a nomen of a most serious disease: heart disease, tuberculosis, cancer, ulcer are brought to his mind by every change from the normal sensations of the body. In many instances this change from the normal sensations is brought about by his own attention to himself, since the body is a hard-working machine, full of squeaks, groans, and slight abnormal reactions, which have no significance except as indications of the child. In many instances this change from the normal sensations is brought about by his own attention to himself, since the body is a hard-working machine, full of squeaks, groans, and slight abnormal reactions, which have no significance except as indications of the child. I have no hesitation in saying that there is a useful, constructive side to fear, without which, human discipline and subjection should be impossible, and there is a pathological fear which works definitely to injure both the physical and mental health of the individual as well as contributing tremendously to unhappiness. On the constructive side, the fear of pain, and the fear of public opinion, fear of punishment in its widest significance, is of immense importance in bringing about foresight and watchful planning; it is a back of thrift, life insurance, agriculture, medicine, a large part of religion, and the orderly conduct of humanity, disciplines unruly passions and over-egoistic reactions.

To be afraid under certain circumstances is entirely normal. To inflict fear, although it is sometimes cruel, is often a way of avoiding worse disasters.

ing fear in the too zealous intravert. A regular annual visit to the family physician will often allay the fears of the patient and enable him to pursue his daily routine in a rational way.

THAT there is much difference between cheap goods and good goods is cheap. Stores that sell good goods cheap are great believers in advertising. Advertising is what has placed them in the lime-light. They are fully prepared to meet the demands of the shoppers. They have put themselves in the public service by truthful advertising. In these stores of advertised goods you will find that they not only sell good goods cheap but you will experience the pleasure of receiving service with the goods. You will also find courtesy and appreciation there. You will get what you want and not an imitation. They invite your trade by advertising. They buy right and sell right. Ornate Mid-Victorian Mansion Easily Modernized

ARCHITECT CREATES A BEAUTIFUL HOME

NEW ENGLISH TYPE ARCHITECTURE

One of the most striking examples of recent modernization is shown on this page. It illustrates vividly the possibilities that await even the old time mansions of Mid-Victorian architecture and emphasize the fact that all homes constructed years ago contain within themselves beauty and comfort which only needs skilled hands to be brought out.

This particular modernizing project is located in Plainfield, N. J., the architect being Mr. Lewis Bowman of Bronxville, N. Y.

Old Time Architecture
Only a casual study of the illustration at the bottom is needed to disclose the age of the building. The ornate trimming, the little balconies, the high narrow windows with their lead glass transoms, light and rolling shutters all speak of the architecture of long ago.

The general feeling of the residence is that of ostentatious display. It stood back from the street on the brow of a hill, looking over the slight valley below.

A Contrast
When the architect had redesigned the exterior lines of the house and the builder had completed his work, a remarkable change had taken place in the old homestead. The old curlicues are gone, the ornate gingerbread trimming has been wiped off, and the small impractical balconies have disappeared.

In their place is a handsome, dignified English type home of stone, stucco and timbers. It breathes an air of distinction and worth. Its rambling mass invites rather than repels.

In this modernizing project through the addition of a concrete terrace and a small addition at the right the apparent length of the house has been increased so that there is now an atmosphere that the home clings to the hilltop rather than that it perches boldly upright in position.

The walls of the house have been smoothed off. Stucco takes the place of the former construction of brick and shingle siding. The general shape of the roof and wings remains the same, however, and the after illustration is easily recognizable as being the present version of the old mansion.

Dignified Entrance
The old front porch with its sloping shingle roof and machine turned pillars has been discarded entirely. The entrance way is now off a recessed porch behind a pair of stone arched openings.

The balcony overhead has disappeared and now the roof line starts from the five sashed window opening and sweeps down to project beyond the main portion of the house some four feet. This slight projection has been carried over the new addition allowing a number of extra square feet to the rooms in this section and increasing the effectiveness of the residence's appearance.

In general the window openings are the same as previous, but the old time wooden sash have been discarded in favor of steel framed casements with small panes and slender muntin bars. The windows in the gables are now mere ventilators rather than full size sash as was previously used.

The new triple chimney pots over the square concreted stack is a modern touch. The simple half timbered and stucco walls of the main wing relieve the bareness that would otherwise ensue if the entire wall area had been allowed to remain plain. The concrete terrace with its solid concrete parapet becomes an integral part of the house and plays an effective part in creating the desired atmosphere of a rambling home.

Necessarily in such a modernizing project as this the interior of the residence was improved also.

New Window Treatment In the Modern House

High narrow windows usually one to an opening are the sign of an old style house. Back in the days of the World's Fair, high ceilings were the rule and logically the windows had to be high to conform.

But today the style in windows has changed. The windows are not so high and several are often placed in an opening. These windows are equipped with weights so that they slide easily and often the lights in the upper sash are divided by narrow muntin bars which add texture to the window mass and give a sense of protection.

The new treatment give a flood of natural light and fresh air to the interior of the building. The modern home is a bright, cheerful one and the windows play an important part in accomplishing this effect.

These Views Show Results of Modernizing

When the old-time Mid-Victorian house at the right was modernized it was transformed into the handsome residence above. These two views shows the remarkable contrast which comes with modernization and is evidence of the practical results that may be achieved by this method of home improvement.

Select Draperies Suitable For Exterior and Interior

When placing new draperies and curtains at the windows remember that they will be seen both from without and within. The color combinations must be selected with both points of view in mind.

Often draperies that blend perfectly with the interior furnishings create a wrong impression of the occupants of the home because their appearance from without is incongruous and distasteful.

A selection which is suitable is always possible and the importance of such a selection should always be kept in the foreground.

Number of Your House Should Be Easily Seen

Do the numbers on your house show up plainly? When your friends call on you and have only the address do they find your house easily? The average house number is hard to find and strangers in the neighborhood often have difficulty in locating the address they are seeking. Place the numbers of your house where they will be easily seen. At night a light should shine upon them, for then is the problem of locating a residence most difficult. Your hardware store can aid you with a new set of numbers that can be seen both by day and night.

Casement Windows Give 100 Per Cent Ventilation

During the summer months your sun parlor can be made into an outdoor porch if the windows are of the casement type. The ordinary double-hung sliding window when open gives but 50 per cent ventilation—it can only be opened half way. With the casement, however, the whole window may be flung open, allowing the entire window opening to welcome the cooling breezes.

If sudden showers arise, the sun parlor can quickly be enclosed by walls of glass, preventing damage by rain.

MODERNIZE THE HOUSE WITH A STUCCO SIDING

One method of freshening up the exterior of the old home is to entirely change the siding of the house. A common method is to place shingles over the older clapboard siding or to use a brick veneer. The use of stucco for the modernized home is also effective.

That stucco can easily be applied to the side walls of the existing house is conceded by all builders. This method can be done economically by simply applying to the old siding a mesh to which the stucco is applied. Some builders advise removing the old siding.

If stucco is applied to the old siding, the surface will be about one and one-half inches further from the wall than was the face of the old siding. Under the conditions the builder will have to watch window and door openings to see that they are either extended to take care of this or else the stucco is brought into the opening with a return.

Before applying stucco to any frame constructed house make certain that the house is structurally sound and will support the weight of the stucco. Examine the sills and have a carpenter replace any that are defective.

After the trim has been prepared the work of applying the stucco proceeds. Waterproof building paper is applied directly to the old siding.

then furring strips are attached and this covered with metal lath or woven wire cloth over which the stucco is placed.

Stucco can also be applied with success to masonry buildings, this is to buildings constructed of stone, clay brick, tile, concrete block or poured concrete.

The window and door openings in masonry almost invariably are built so that the trim does not project beyond the surface of the walls so that no change is usually necessary when stucco is used.

The walls in every case must be prepared to receive the stucco. This means that they must be properly cleaned. A poured concrete surface is roughened so that all smooth surface left by the forms is removed. Old clay brick or concrete block must be scrubbed to remove any dirt, or chipped to leave a clean surface. If they have been painted, the entire surface must be chipped off to at least one-quarter of an inch or beyond the depth to which the paint and oil have penetrated. Otherwise the stucco will not bond properly.

Stucco siding has many advantages which make it desirable. It is a good insulation and engineers claim that its application will reduce fuel bills about 15 per cent.

There are at least four mistakes in the above picture. They may pertain to grammar, history, etiquette, drawing or whatnot. See if you can find them. Then look at the scrambled word below—and unscramble it, by switching the letters around. Grade yourself 20 for each of the mistakes you find, and 20 for the word if you unscramble it. Tomorrow we'll explain the mistake and tell you the word. Then you can see how near a hundred you bat.

CRORUS OF 5,000 TO "HALLELUJAH" AT BIG FESTIVAL

Will Be But One Great Feature Of Chicago Fete August 23

The Chicago Tribune of Sunday contained the following story concerning the Chicago-Lee music festival, in the promotion of which The Telegraph has joined with many other newspapers of this section on co-operation with the Tribune:

By EDWARD MOORE Did you ever hear a chorus of 5,000 voices thundering out the measures of the Hallelujah chorus from Handel's great oratorio, "The Messiah"? You will hear it at Soldiers' field during the concert of the Chicago-Lee Music Festival on the night of Saturday, August 23. It is going to be one of the climaxes in a program full of clamor.

What is more, you may, if you desire, take part in the performance. Every singer is invited, no one is barred, and there will be no conditions, except the ability and willingness to sing and to be acquainted with the Hallelujah chorus.

Fill Out the Entry Blank All over the United States there are choral organizations, there have been choral organizations for years and years back, and hardly a one of them that does not know "The Messiah" from first note to last.

The chorus classics as one of the staple items in all choral singing. These remarks therefore are addressed primarily toward choral singers, or those who have been choral singers, individual chorists and not their organizations. If you would like to take part in this stirring event, all that you will need to do is to fill out the application blank regarding singing in the Hallelujah chorus—which you will find printed in this issue of The Telegraph, and send it in. You will at once be enrolled as a member of the big chorus.

No Tryouts or Voice Tests There will be no tryouts, no voice tests, no formalities of any kind. It applies to Chicagoans and Chicago-landers alike. All that will be expected of you is to know the music of the Hallelujah chorus and be willing to lift up your voice in its strains when the conductor gives the signal with his baton.

You need not even be an enrolled member of any choral organization. Past acquaintance with the number will be sufficient. It may be found desirable to be such a member, simply because such members have a more vivid memory of the work, but it is not necessary.

As has been said above, past members who would like to get back and sing a few moments for old times' sake will be just as welcome as those who took a formal part in "The Messiah" as late as last month. In any event, and once again, this invitation applies to singers and to singing societies, though these, too, will be welcome if they care to come. But do not wait for your choral conductor to enter your name. Do it yourself, and do it now.

Noble Cain to be Director Since the success of a complex choral number depends quite as much upon the conductor as upon the singers, perhaps even more so, there is pleasure in announcing that the choral conductor for the Chicago-Lee Music Festival will be Noble Cain, a director who in a few years has established an enviable record for himself as a brilliant and magnetic wielder of the baton.

During his career in Chicago he has been the conductor of the Carson, Pirie, Scott & Co. chorus, the Armour Maile chorus, and through many smaller units to the Senn High school a Capella chorus, an organization that has made history in the art of music. It is the largest organization of its kind in the world, singing as its name indicates, entirely without accompaniment. During the season just past Mr. Cain presented for the first time his new Chicago a Capella choir, and its debut was likewise a sensation.

Honored for His Scholarship Mr. Cain is a University of Chicago man, having taken his master's degree there in the department of German literature. Another signal honor, quite outside of his musical achievements, was to have passed the Rhodes scholarship examination for entrance to Oxford in the summer of 1928.

He has two hobbies, chess and aviation. Just now he is training for his pilot's license at Curtiss flying field. But though by music and plane he may be in the clouds, as a conductor his feet are distinctly on the ground and he has all his wits about him.

Mr. Cain grasped the idea of directing a huge chorus through the Handel number with all the enthusiasm and that has made a success of his other enterprises. When approached on the subject he said that he was whole heartedly of the belief that chorus singers in and about Chicago one evening under the open sky to sing the things that they have learned in the past, and that even if they had not sung lately, they would need only a few familiar bars of music to recall what would follow.

Negro Groups to Take Part This, by the way, will not be the only choral feature of the Chicago-Lee music festival. There has been a remarkable amount of musical development during the last few years among the colored population of Chicago, a development less well known than it should be since its manifestations have not always been made public, but confined to colored audiences and patrons.

On the night of August 23, however, Negro organizations will take an important part. There have been entries from the Metropolitan Community church choir directed by J. Wesley Jones, the Mundy chorists directed by James A. Mundy, the Pilgrim Baptist church choir, the Olivet Baptist church choir and others.

Maj. N. Clark Smith, former bandmaster of Tuskegee institute and now instructor at Wendell Phillips High school, has entered two bands, one of the Women's World Fair band of the Community band, made up in general of former members of the Chicago Defender Newboys' band. All these will be heard in music by and of their own race.

And when most of the highly specialized organizations have been heard in their own numbers, they will merge into a unit of their own, and under the swing of Mr. Cain's baton, will lead the audience into a general get-together community song. Remember "Sweet Adeline"? You may as well tune up for it now, because that will be one of the pieces in which everybody will take part.

IDA HEADING JUDITH by CORALIE STANTON and HEATH HOSKEN COPYRIGHT 1930 BY CHELSEA HOUSE

BEGIN HERE TODAY JUDITH GRANT, artist's model, loves ALAN STEYNE, as does CHUMMEY MORLEY, her best friend. Chummevy had loved Steyne years ago and lost her memory when he was away so, though he loves Judith, Judith feels he must marry Chummevy, who regains her memory when he returns. Judith studies dancing and becomes a dancer in a modest show backed by rich BRUCE GIDDEON who is infatuated with her. Meanwhile Chummevy learns that Steyne and Judith love each other, and breaks her engagement; but Judith refuses to marry Steyne, telling him he must do it, and rejects Gideon's proposals. Steyne and Chummevy are about to be married when Judith is badly hurt in a theater fire. She goes to a hospital and is nursed by the nurse who once nursed Chummevy. Chummevy, realizing that Steyne loves Judith, tries to console her by infatuation with her. Chummevy is killed by a falling beam. DUMONT, a young artist who also loves Judith, tells her that he will do anything to help her. NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY CHAPTER XLII

AGAIN a slight doubt crept into Dumont's mind. "Are you quite sure of all this, Chummevy?" he asked. "Of course I am. When she came back the other day, she was only eager for Alan and me to marry; but she loves him. Bastien Judy loves him and he loves her, but she will never marry him while I am alive; so you'd much better have let me die."

"That was your way out," he said. "The only way," she replied. Bastien rose and walked up and down the room. Chummevy was recovering her self-control. Her voice no longer had that wild tone; it was her ordinary, beautiful, bell-like voice.

"I don't think it's the only way at all," he said. "It is, Bastien; and now you've spoiled it. You see, I've been perfectly horrid. When Alan used to be worried about Judy and Mr. Gideon, I used to think that Judy could look after herself, and that he was being too fussy. I never dreamed that I was standing between them!"

"You needn't stand between them any longer," he said. "I must while I'm alive. You know Judy. She'll never give way. Chummevy, you couldn't marry Steyne if you were married to someone else."

"To someone else! To whom?" Chummevy stared at him. "Oh, Bastien!" "It's a perfectly sound suggestion," he assured her. "But Bastien, you love Judy yourself!"

"So you know that?" "Of course I do." "And so do you love her, Chummevy. Between us, we can give her her happiness. If you marry me, you can't marry Steyne; and then she can."

"Bastien, you would be willing to do that for Judy?" "Of course I would." Then he looked at Chummevy and laughed a little awkwardly. "And after all, we've a good deal in common, Chummevy, and I don't think we should get on each other's nerves. I don't want to be rude."

"You're not rude, Bastien—you're wonderful. But are you sure it would work?" "I don't see how it could help working. Married to me you couldn't marry Steyne. Why should Judy imagine you married me when you were free to marry Steyne if you wanted to?"

CHUMMEY nodded. "And, of course," she put in, "Alan loves her too much to think."

"That's right, Chummevy," said Dumont. "Men don't think." Then again he looked at her deprecatingly. "What do you say? Can you do it?"

"If you can, why shouldn't I?" she asked. Her voice was deeper than ever. "I don't think you love her more than I do, Bastien—only differently; but it's not fair to you."

"Why not?" he asked belligerently. "Aren't you a wife any man would be lucky to get? I should say you were!"

"Oh, I don't know. Bastien, I'm rather funny, you know. Remember all those years! And then when Alan did come back, I didn't know him; and I didn't know that I didn't know him. Bastien, I might easily get queer again."

"I'll take the risk," said Dumont and his eyes met hers with an unflinching purpose behind which lurked the humorous twinkle which was sary to lighten the situation, difficult as it was.

"And then they both laughed. "My way out is better than yours," Dumont went on. "In fact, it's the only way. If I hadn't come in tonight, Chummevy, and you had really done that supremely idiotic thing, do you think Judy wouldn't have known? Do you think for a moment Judy would have married Steyne then? Do you imagine Judy would ever have been happy again?"

"I believe Judy cares for you in a way, more than she cares for anybody on earth. There's a place in Judy's heart that nobody but you can ever fill. It's a bargain, then?"

"If you really think it's the best way, Bastien."

"You'll have to buck up and do some acting," he said a trifle seriously. "You've got to be happy, you know. We'd better get married at once quite quietly, without letting them know, and go away. They'll do some wondering. Then we'll turn up again, an old married couple. That way it won't give Judy such a shock."

"No, Bastien."

"I think between us we can manage it."

"Oh, yes, of course we can," she smiled at him—that wonderful young smile now tinged with the maturity of pain. "I believe you're right, Bastien. It's perhaps the only way. You know Judy."

"We won't come back too soon," he said. "We'll go abroad some where. After all, Clarissa, we have our work."

They shook hands on their pact, and Chummevy washed and changed her dress, and they went down stairs together and around the corner and across the road to the dilapidated, this being a special occasion, in Gino's special table d'hôte dinner.

A MONTH later, it was the first week of November, that was soft with the lingering sunshine of a summer loath to depart.

Judy left the nursing home and went back to her old lodgings. The landlady of the place and her daughter were Judy's bond slaves, and a nurse from the nursing home came every day to attend to her remaining bandages.

Madame de Foros, too, was most kind. Judy liked her more and more; but she would not meet her brother—which seemed really a little ungrateful, as he had brought her home in his yacht.

"It's no good," she said to his sister. "It's really no good. I won't be just friends, even if I could forgive him. But there, what's the good of talking about him? He's going to be married, and he'll soon forget all about me."

"I don't think he will," Thirza de Foros replied. "Do you mind telling me why you refused to marry him?"

"How do you know he asked me?" "He told me so."

"I didn't want to—that's all."

"You rather led him on, didn't you?" "That's my business—and his. He knows why."

His sister said no more; but a few days later she brought a message from Gideon to Judy's lodgings. He was going abroad, and he implored Judy to see him once more to say goodby.

Judy relented sufficiently to say that he might come to tea the next day.

When he came, he was shown into her sitting room. Presently Judy hobbled into the room on her two sticks, a regular little shadow dressed in black, and with a quiet glow in her eyes that the man had never seen before.

"Good gracious, what a wreck you look!" she exclaimed. "What on earth have you been doing? Haven't you been to bed for a month, and have you had too much to drink every night?"

"Something like it," he answered. "I'd be ashamed of myself, Mr. Punch."

"It's your fault, Judy—" he began, but she interrupted him. "Now drop that! Be civil, please. I thought you'd come to say good by."

"So I have, unless you've changed your mind."

"I shall never do that, silly! Besides, I thought you were marrying your beautiful princess, after all."

"You know perfectly well I'd chuck her tomorrow for you, as I did before," he said brutally.

FRENCH TENNIS STARS RETAINED THE DAVIS CUP

Overwhelmed Americans In This Year's Play For Tennis Trophy

Auteuil, France, July 28—(AP)—Once more the tennis masters of France have beaten off America's challenge for the Davis Cup.

Capturing both of the final singles matches yesterday, France retained the cup by a margin of four victories to one and left no doubt of the superiority of the French aces, Henri Cochet and Jean Borotra, over the best America can offer at the present time.

Borotra, the "Bounding Basque" of old, clinched the series with a five set victory over George Lott of Chicago, 5-7, 6-3, 3-6, 6-2, 6-6 and Cochet put the finishing touches to an overwhelming French victory by trouncing Big Bill Tilden, 4-6, 6-3, 6-1, 7-5.

Thus the series ended with Tilden chalking up the only American point by beating Borotra in singles on Friday. Lott lost both his singles matches and Wilmer Allison and John Van Ryn, Wimbledon champions, lost the doubles to Cochet and Jacques Brugnon.

France had been strongly favored to retain the cup but America had been figured to put up a much closer fight for the trophy. It lost in 1927. A year ago France won by a margin of three to two and most experts expected a similar score this year.

Cochet, showing a remarkable reversal of form after his poor performance at Wimbledon, dominated the challenge round as he has for several years. Lott put up a gallant fight against Borotra but the veteran Frenchman called upon his experience in tournament play when pressed and managed to hold the upper hand.

For Tilden and Borotra, the series marked the end of their Davis Cup careers. Big Bill pressed into service this year against his own desires, announced he would never play for the international trophy again. Borotra also told the Associated Press he was through.

Two Auto Racers Killed On Sunday

Woodbridge, N. J., July 28—(AP)—Before 8,000 spectators among whom were his wife and baby, Bob Robinson of Daytona Beach, Fla., automobile racing driver, was killed in a spill of his car during a race yesterday.

Robinson was going 80 miles an hour in third place in a 50 mile race when a rear tire blew out on the car of Rick Decker of Staten Island, who was in second place.

Decker's machine careened and Robinson's struck it a glancing blow, then shot up the embankment of the track, shattered the guard-rail and plunged 30 feet to the ground outside.

Rockville, Ind., July 28—(AP)—Frank Jenkinson of LaPayette, Ind., race driver, was killed when his car skidded off a turn of the Jungle Park track yesterday.

DAREDEVIL CIRCUS GIRL THRILLED BY CLOWNS

Helene Wallenda and one of the Hundred Laugh-Producers with the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

Pretty little Helene Wallenda twice daily takes her life in her hands when perched on the shoulders of her brothers, "three high," she walks with them across a slender strand of wire 45 feet above the hippodrome track and arena of the Ringling Bros. and Barnum & Bailey Circus.

But in her leisure moments—those moments when the circus world is at rest between shows—Miss Wallenda loves to visit the clowns. And she never fails to get a greater thrill out of the antics of the funny men than in her own daring feat.

Modestly she says, "They make people laugh and that is the hardest thing in the world to do and the most desirable. My own work—it is nothing." But the anxious circus fans watching her in her seemingly impossible performance, with no net underneath, take quite a different view.

There are 100 clowns with the big circus and with each and all of them Helene Wallenda is a prime favorite. Coming to America direct from triumphs in Europe, the Wallenda troupe have at once established themselves as premier artists of the "big tops."

In addition to the Wallendas there are many other thrilling features with the Ringling-Barnum Circus this year, including Hugo Zucchini, the "Human Projectile," fired bodily from a cannon; Con Coleano, genius of tight wire; Lillian Leitzel, queen of the air; the Flying Codonas, greatest of all aerial acts; Maximo, slack wire wizard, and hundreds of others.

The Greatest Show on Earth will exhibit in Sterling on Friday, Aug. 1.

where Jenkinson went over later, but was unhurt.

Stribling Favored To Trim Phil Scott

London, July 28—(AP)—W. L. (Young) Stribling of Macon, Ga., and Phil Scott, the London fireman, meet in a 10 round bout at Wimbledon Stadium tonight in what is ballooned as a match for the world's heavyweight championship.

British boxing followers, believing Scott was the victim of an unjust decision in his Miami Beach, Fla., bout with Jack Sharkey, have declined to recognize the authenticity of Max Schmeling's title claims.

Barring rain, the young American promoter, Jeff Dickson, was counting upon a crowd of 30,000. Although Scott holds the heavyweight championship of his native land Stribling ruled a favorite by a wide betting margin today.

Arlington Park On Its Last Week

Chicago, July 28—(AP)—What's left of the $800,000 in purses offered by the Arlington Park Jockey Club will be distributed this week, the club officials said.

With six days left, Arlington Park officials were confident that last year's attendance and money figures would be eclipsed. The 1929 meeting produced a profit of $800,000, all of which was put back into purses and improvements, and it was estimated that this year's figure might be as much as 30 per cent larger.

The Post and Paddock stakes, a six furlong hunt for 2 year olds, has a list of 200 nominations. The Matron Stakes, at a mile, for fillies and mares, three years old and up, will be decided for the first time.

Schaaf To Tackle John Risko Tonight

Philadelphia, July 28—(AP)—Ernie Schaaf, up and coming Boston heavyweight, battles Johnny Risko of Cleveland for ten rounds or less tonight in what promises to be the week's outstanding fistic attraction.

Schaaf has been unusually successful in the last year or so but he probably will be on the short end of one betting at ring time tonight for Risko, despite his many years in the ring, still ranks as one of the toughest of all heavyweights to beat.

TREE SITTING OR ENDURANCE

Mabel Nagel

Tree sitting, at first thought, may seem just a foolish whim of the times. But after all, it might be a gratifying lesson in endurance and grit.

Did you ever stop to think how necessary to life is endurance, and the boy or girl who learns to endure today, in little things, is the man and woman of tomorrow, who can endure the big things of life.

Bros. have all proved what endurance can do even though there were different tests made by them to prove their ability to endure.

So, after all, don't ridicule other tree sitting boys, but rather encourage them, to learn the greatest lesson of life, call and see them, see if there is any little comfort you might give them. Other cuts are rewarding their boys. Help put Dixon on the map as having a world champion, if it is only a tree sitter. There are two boys sitting on Galena Avenue and one at 1411 W. 3rd street. Give the boys a hand.

Every building must have a foundation before it can be secure. Every life, to be at its fullest, must learn to forgive and endure. Endurance is one of life's lessons, and if we win out in the test and learn to forgive and endure we are living our life at its best.

Saved Prize Stock

From Death In Fire

Oconomowoc, Wis., July 26—(UP)—Prize stock on the farm of Fred Pabst, member of the wealthy Milwaukee family, was saved today when fire destroyed an immense, L-shaped barn.

Four valuable bulls and 40 horses were led from the stalls by Pabst's sons.

Spontaneous combustion was blamed for the fire which did $100,000 damage.

Insane Patient At Peoria Kills Fellow

Peoria, Ill., July 26—(UP)—Louis Zigarra, 64, Chicago, a patient in the Peoria State hospital for the insane, was beaten to death by Reuben Smith, 39, Streator, Illinois, another patient, today. Smith attacked Zigarra with a 35-pound floor polisher during a quarrel. They were confined in the "locked ward," reserved for violent inmates.

Look at the little yellow tag on your Dixon Telegraph. If about to expire send postoffice money order or check, payable to the B. F. Shaw Printing Co.

REV. OTHO F. BARTHOLOW

Ph. D., D. D.

Dr. Bartholow, who comes to us as the preacher at our opening services on August 3rd, is a man of great vigor, zeal, unlimited energy, physical and mental strength, with a marvelous capacity for work. His preaching is characterized with blood red earnestness and spiritual power.

He was born at Lincoln, Illinois, and was definitely converted to God in 1884. He was educated at the Illinois State University, the Illinois Wesleyan University and The Boston University, and graduated with the degrees of M. A., Ph. D., and D. D.

His first church was at Bridgeport, Conn., from there he left for Feet Street church, Brooklyn, then spent pastorates at the 18th Street church, Brooklyn, and James Street church, Brooklyn, from thence he was called to the Mt. Vernon church, N. Y. in 1905, and has been pastor there since. During his twenty-five years pastorate he has received into the church four thousand and one hundred members and the present church membership is two thousand two hundred. The great men's Bible Class Movement extending throughout the United States originated with the Bartholow Bible Class in 1906. Organized with seven members its present enrollment is two thousand
